

NEWS AND VIEWS . . .

And What Have You

By BOB CRAIG

This is being written on Tuesday morning following the first day of the Republican Convention and we will have to say that ABC has the answer to TV coverage for something as drawn out as this.

While NBC and CBS are going from start to finish with their coverage, ABC is limiting theirs to 90 minutes in the evening with bulletins during the remainder of the time. We understand that this idea originated because ABC could not afford to spend the money it would take for complete coverage.

But regardless of the reason for it, it appears that this is enough time to cover everything of interest that is happening in Miami.

We watched part of the NBC coverage but when they showed an aerial view of a bunch of cars on a Florida freeway the second time, and said that this was Nixon's caravan to his headquarters, we decided that we could find something better to do.

While there is a great deal of important work that goes on at a National Convention and a great number of busy dedicated people, it is hard to capture this feeling with continuous, complete coverage.

From what we know about conventions, it would seem that the problem facing the convention planners is what do you do to entertain the rank and file delegates while the important work is going on behind the scenes. To take care of this they bring on a long list of speakers that really do not have much to say other than try to please the delegates with what they want to hear.

All of this does not make for a breath taking spectacle that will keep the home viewer on the edge of his chair all day or even all evening.

We did not realize until the Governor came out to make the Forts Trail tour that Jones County had failed to come up with the necessary $150 or so that it took to buy the signs that would include Fort Phantom in this tourist attraction. We knew that for some reason our county fathers decided that the county could not pay the money but thought that some other method had been found to raise the money.

While Fort Phantom is on the Southern end of the county and would not help our end of the county very much, we are still disappointed that our penny-pinching commissioners could not find even $150 to have Jones County included in this state-wide tourist project.

While there supposedly was some reason that the county could not use tax money for a project like this, a great majority of counties in the state found a way to get around this and will likely benefit far more than the piddling amount they are spending.

To us, this is just another reason that our whole system of county government should be junked. In its present form it does not even come close to meeting the needs of our people.

The majority of the tax payers receive so little from their county government that it could just about be done away with and never be missed.

To our thinking the county government could be reorganized and most of the elective offices done away with. Your first thought is that if you elect all of the county officers you have a better control over your county government but it does not seem to work that way. As it stands now we have too many bosses and not enough workers at the county seat level.

The commissioner's court can not even say when the offices will be open. We feel that if the court hired the county clerk, the treasurer, the sheriff and other elected officials, they could also fire them if they failed to respond to the will of the people.

Even cities as large as Houston are able to operate this way and it is hard to see why a county could not.

Probably the commissioners could be more like city councilmen and serve only parttime to a token salary and hire someone to take care of all the roads in the county.

But until the people get fed up with the present mess and want to make a change we will just have to go on with our present wasteful system.

This week the Howard family are gathering here with the four Howard boys of Hamlin for a happy reunion. It has been a long time since they were together and the occasion is more enjoyable for that reason.

Those present are: Dr. Howard, the father and head of the family while all were

HAD COMPANY? That's news. . . Call the HERALD.

Weighty Matters

Someone once defined dieting as the triumph of mind over platter and it's certainly true that willpower is nine-tenths of the battle. Once the initial impetus is gone—and you've lost the really excess baggage you wanted to—then starts the more difficult part: the day-to-day build-up of healthy weight-watching habits.

To someone with "crash" diet is synonymous with "crash." To others a diet simply means you eat less at the table—and more between meals. To me dieting is merely a policy of "watchful weighting." I avoid the obvious high calorie items like potatoes, bread, sweets, but I'm not fanatic about it. If I'm invited to dinner, I'll have a small (really minuscule) portion of my hostess's bread pudding specialty—rather than insult her by refusing point blank. You can always do a couple of extra push-ups or deep-knee bends that evening anyway!

I think exercise is a healthy habit to acquire since it not only makes you look good but it makes you feel so darned healthy. Americans are weight-conscious but somehow they're not as addicted to body-toning activity like so many Europeans are. And I think it's a shame that we face the world looking a little flabby around the edges.

Today with all the marvelous variety of prepared foods around—especially artificially sweetened, calorie-controlled items—there's no excuse for gaining, instead of maintaining an ideal weight.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Marshall have returned after spending the summer with their daughter, Mrs. Paul Rice in Portland, Ore. While there they also visited a grandson, Richard Rice, who is with the Special Forces at Fort Ord, Calif.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

If August fishing were as hot as the weather, wouldn't that be something? Well, it can be, but usually isn't — except for a dedicated breed looked upon by their neighbors as nocturnal nuts.

Catfish, of course, are the most commonly night-caught species. But many of the big bass, brown trout, walleyes, snook, tarpon and scattered other species are also taken at night. This should come as no surprise to veteran anglers, since these fishes are known night feeders. However, you might be surprised how many catches of bragging-size bluegills are also taken when blackness prevails.

So if your dog-days fishing is less than satisfactory, you might try dabbling in the dark just for the heck of it. Such middle-of-the-night enterprise is common to coon and fox hunters, but not to average fishing households, so be as sneaky as you can about it. And at that, be prepared for some lip from your wife, stares from your neighbors and quips from your kids. However, when you come home with a couple of monsters, it's amazing how quickly derision can turn to praise.

Since they are the target of most anglers in these United States, let's talk about night fishing for bass.

Experience indicates that big bass come most often at night to lures of two types: (1) noisy ones on the surface and (2) quiet ones on the bottom.

For best odds, don't waste your time surface fishing on breezy nights. The surface should be as calm as your preacher when he explains the reasons for the increase in next year's church budget.

You can virtually eliminate missed strikes if you'll retrieve your lure — whether it's of the popper, the spinner, the splutter or the bloomer type — in a definite rhythm. According to Homer Circle, Angling Editor of Sports Circle Magazine, there's a good reason: A bass has a sense of timing and will consistently strike the center of the turbulence. If you use an erratic retrieve, with no pat-tern, bass often hit where the lure was before you moved it.

Quiet lures for bottom scratching fall into the category of work-em-yourself types. This applies to jigs, jig/worm and jig/eel combinations and plastic worms hooked in any of the almost limitless ways. Whatever your rig, a weedless hook is desirable to reduce snagging to tolerable levels.

For fishing these quiet lures the watchword is s-l-o-w-l-y — crawling them over shore and bottom cover and keeping your rod tip always in a striking position, which means below waist level. One school of angling thought lets bass chew on worms and eels. A fisherman of the other breed prefers hooks in both the head and tail ends, and he busts 'em the instant he feels life at the end of his line.

Preseason scouting to find doves can be more interesting if you combine your scouting with crow shooting.—Sports Afield.

If you fish a salt-water bait lying on the bottom, it may be eaten by crabs or small fish. It's better to rig it just off the bottom, where only the more venturesome and larger specimens will find it.—Sports Afield.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

By VERN SANFORD

Shortly after nightfall Lake O' the Pines comes to life. You can see evidence of it everywhere. First, the flickering flame of a lighted gasoline lantern, then the brilliant and steady glow. White lights seem to pop up like fireflies, everywhere.

Alongside these lanterns are crappie fishermen, or in Northeast Texas lingo, the "white perch" anglers. They get out in the cool of night to drop their live minnows down alongside a tree or next to a submerged clump of brush. Each of those tight-line holders hopes that one of those broad, "white fish" . . . attracted by the lantern light . . . soon will give that tell-tale yank on the line.

This isn't a scene familiar only to Northeast Texas. It is repeated almost every night—spring, summer and fall—on lakes throughout the Lone Star State. It happens everywhere you find those ubiquitous crappie. And that's almost everywhere!

Crappies are basically lake fish. You'll find a few in the deep, placid pools of rivers, but mostly they favor the man-made reservoirs. Soon after a new lake fills up, crappie start showing up on anglers' stringers. This is true more and more as time goes by.

Why? Because the crappie is a master at multiplication. In fact, if it has one fault it is that it is too prolific.

"The unfortunate thing about crappies is they have the ability to over-populate the waters in which they live by their sheer productive potential," says Marion Toole, director of Int'l Fisheries for the State Parks and Wildlife Commission. "The first crappies that are planted in a pond or lake are capable of rapid growth, but as subsequent spawns occur the growth rate of the young of the year becomes slower and finally a stunted crappie population is the end result."

This means, then that crappies have to be fished—hard. Which is all right with the fishermen. If there is one fish that fishermen like to catch, it is the crappie.

There's some magic about this fish that's difficult to describe. It isn't a very sporting fish, not really. It bites in a series of light tap-taps, and when hooked it battles deep in tight figure eights, surrendering after only a brief fling of energy. Perhaps the basic motivation behind its inherent popularity is that it is an epicure's delight on the dinner platter. Many fishermen claim the crappie has the best flavor of any fish, bar none. It is a kind of sweet, succulent meat. Best way to cook one, they say, is to lop off the head, gut it and fry whole, a rich golden brown.

Two species of crappie are found in Texas—the white and black crappie. Offhand, it is almost impossible to tell them apart. A large male of the white species might be almost entirely black. Only sure-fire identification is to count the spines in the dorsal fin. If it has five or six spines, you've got yourself a white crappie; seven or eight and it belongs to the black family.

Actually, most fishermen could care less whether it is white or black. All they like to do is catch them . . . and the more the merrier. Fortunately for anglers, crappie have a way of cooperating quite nicely. Another good thing about the crappie is that they are school fish and where you catch one you'll likely take several.

Any kind of rod and reel can be used for crappie fishing, and if the water is shallow enough, an ordinary cane pole will suffice. Tie about a No. 1 thin-shanked hook on the end of your line, add a clinch-on sinker about eight inches up and you're in business.

Crappie prefer some kind of cover. Almost always you'll find them around submerged brush. Some people even "bait" crappie holes by tying together large clumps of green brush and anchoring the brush underwater in a likely spot.

One of the best times to catch crappies is in the spring, when they migrate into the shallows to feed. This is one time of year when they readily hit artificial baits. Bass fishermen often take several while plugging along the shorelines of lakes.

Probably the best lure is the tiny white maribou-jug. All you must do is cast the jig, allow it to sink deep and bring it back slowly, simply reeling in at the same speed all the time. Some people put a cork bobber about two feet above the jig and cast this around brush in the shallows, popping the cork lightly to make the jig jump up and down.

Favorite natural food of the crappie is the minnow. Ninety-nine of every 100 crappie caught are taken on this popular bait. A small minnow about two inches long is best. Hook it through the lips or just behind the dorsal fin to make it stay alive and wiggle, to entice a wily old crappie into biting.

Sometimes a crappie will carve a minnow off the hook without the fisherman ever knowing it. Large crappie seem to have this knack. What they do is approach from below and sort of lift up on the minnow. This way there is no tell-tale tug to betray the bite.

One of the best crappie fishermen I've ever known uses a porcupine-quill bobber. His rig is set so the minnow is near the bottom, where crappie generally hang out. The slender bobber rides upright on the water. When an up-lifting crappie tries to steal the minnow, the bobber tilts slightly and the fisherman drives the hook home.

As the old axiom goes, there is more than one way to skin a cat.

FHA Supervisor Urges Farmers To Form Grazing Associations

Farmers and cattlemen are acquiring needed land resources by forming grazing associations and obtaining financial assistance from the Farmers Home Administration, the agency's Jones County Supervisor, William T. Grussendorf, said this week.

A grazing association is composed of family farmers and ranchers who join together to acquire and develop land to provide seasonal grazing for livestock belonging to its members. The nonprofit association is owned, operated, and managed by its members.

"Small farmers," Grussendorf said, "can increase their incomes, make better use of land and water resources, and develop larger equity in land through use of a grazing association. This program often provides small farmers with their only apportunity to remain in farming on a profitable basis."

Other advantages of an association include providing opportunities to improve livestock quality, gain bargaining power in the market place, build more stable operations and strengthen the rural community.

"Results benefit the entire community," Grussendorf said, "because associations accomplish better use of the land and water resources and provide expanded tax bases and more local buying power."

The grazing associations now in operation in Texas range in size from 4 to 43 members, depending on the number of livestock to be supported and dimensions and quality of the land.

Eligible to form associations are neighboring farmers and ranchers who operate family

Petroleum Industry Paid 29% Of Cost of Texas Education In 1967

DALLAS — Texas' petroleum industry continued to be a chief source of revenue for the state's public education program during 1967. The industry, according to a new publication of Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, in 1967 paid for 29 percent of the state's cost of public education, 57 percent of the state cost of teacher retirement.

The publication — "68 Informative Facts" — states that the oil and gas industry last year paid $262 million in state taxes, an $18 million increase over 1966.

The annual compilation of industry statistics, released Saturday, further states that: Texas production taxes on oil raised $140.6 million, up $9.6 million over 1966, while production taxes on gas totaled $78.3 million, up $4.3 million over 1966 figures.

The Texas petroleum industry taxes account for 21.8 percent of all state taxes. The state's petroleum industry pays 30 percent of the state franchise tax; 37 percent of state property taxes. The Texas Permanent School Fund in 1967 received $35.4 million from the petroleum industry for lease rentals, bonuses, royalty payments; total since 1932 — $655 million.

The University of Texas Permanent Fund received $16.8 million in petroleum lease rentals, bonuses and royalty in 1967; total since 1924 — $491 million. The Association's leaflet also points out that Texas became the nation's leading petroleum producer in 1928. It adds that the state has produced 30.9 billion barrels of oil, or 36.1 percent of the U. S. total, and Texas has derived $69.6 billion from crude oil sales.

Other items of interest in "68 Facts" include the following:

Oil is produced in 199 counties . . . Texas has 5,600 oil producing firms . . . Texas has 207,446 producing oil wells in 8,708 fields . . . To prevent pollution, each day Texas oil men put over 5 million barrels of oil field salt water back into the ground . . . Texas oil men drilled 9,470 wells in 1967 — 28 percent of U. S. drilling.

The "68 Facts" leaflet is distributed free through Texas Mid-Continent's Oil Information Committee program.

Two Related Attacks Launched In Effort to Control Weevil

Memphis, Tenn. — Two related attacks on the boll weevil, cotton's number one insect enemy, are getting under way.

One calls for field tests of a new systemic insecticide as part of a campaign to wipe out the weevil on the High Plains of Texas. The second involves a Beltwide effort to control the weevil's life cycle.

Cotton Producers Institute has granted $25,000 to the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Entomology Research Division for tests of a new systemic insecticide (Temik) as part of a campaign to eradicate the weevil on the High Plains of Texas.

The USDA will more than match the CPI funds; conducting research and supplying equipment, facilities, and materials.

Results of the field tests this summer and fall could have wide application in the entire boll weevil infested area of the Cotton Belt.

Substantial test - demonstration programs in diapause control of the weevil are expected to be undertaken in Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, North Carolina, Mississippi, Tennessee, and Texas late this season under a plan proposed by the National Cotton Council.

In some states, areas as large as one or more counties will be covered. The Council hopes that at least one large-scale field demonstration can be successfully completed in each of these states to gain information needed for state or regional diapause control programs in following seasons.

Diapause control involves applying insecticides or other control measures after the normal spraying season to kill the weevil population that would otherwise hibernate through the winter. The purpose is to disrupt the insect's life cycle so surviving spring populations will be so low the crop can mature safely with little or no spraying — at which point a repeat of diapause control again knocks down the reduced population for the following year.

Boll weevil population reductions of 90 per cent or more have been consistently achieved in tests so far. Such reductions will lower spring emergence to the point that a damaging infestation will seldom develop until the third generation.

Research and Extension entomologists and county agents are providing the leadership in organizing and supervising the tests.

In the High Plains research, the USDA-CPI effort will also accelerate large-scale testing of several other new approaches that could lead to eradication of the weevil and to better control of other insects.

This includes research with an insect virus as well as conventional insecticides and systemics. The special systemics test will determine the effectiveness of Temik in eliminating the low-level spring population of weevils remaining after previous area-wide diapause control treatments. (Systemic insecticides are those which are taken up and translocated through the plant).

Cotton Producers Institute, the Council, and the Foundation for Cotton Research and Education sponsor other studies aimed at the weevil. Chemicals to destroy the weevil's ability to reproduce — and thus ultimately to wipe out the species — are being screened at Southern Research Institute in Birmingham.

A study on the influence of natural plant substances on weevil diapause is under way at the University of Arkansas.

ROLLING PLAINS COTTON GROWERS INC.

A program directed toward selling cotton's qualities to those who influence great numbers of consumers is now under way in the Rolling Plains, according to Charles G. Bragg, executive vice president of Rolling Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

Acting on the national statistic that 50 percent of the U. S. population is 25 years old or younger, and that teenagers as a group have a discretionary buying power of $12 billion annually, a program has been initiated to get cotton's story before the youngsters.

Through research and promotion of the Cotton Producers Institute with funds provided by the $1 per bale chipped in by the producers, special kits and films on cotton products are being supplied home economic teachers in both high schools and colleges and to extension home economists.

These teachers and extension agents will contact nearly six million teenage girls who spend more than $1.5 billion a year on clothes. An average high school girl spends around $240 a year for clothes and her college counterpart will average $516 annually.

One of the major retail chains is being supplied films relating to the qualities of cotton. The chain, in turn, is getting these films into the hands of the home economics teachers and economists.

It is estimated each teacher will have between 125 and 150 students a year in her classes. Multiply this by the number of home economic teachers in the country, conservatively estimated at 40,000 and in five years, 25-30 million consumers will have been influenced toward cotton.

On the local level, fifty special teaching kits have been furnished RPCG with the compliments of Tom McElroy, manager of Sears, Roebuck and Co. of Abilene. RPCG, in turn, will furnish the kits to all area schools.

Developed by the National Cotton Council, the kit is designed as a complete teaching unit on cotton for the intermediate grades. It includes a detailed teaching guide, actual

At the Boll Weevil Laboratory at State College, Mississippi, weevils are being mass-produced for year-around use by some 25 companies for testing potential new insecticides.

Mrs. Scott Pepper, Kelly, Kevin, and Dawn of Claude visited Monday through Wednesday of last week with her grandmother, Mrs. J. P. Morgan. They were accompanied by Mrs. Pepper's mother-in-law, Mrs. Dale Pepper of Lubbock.

Neinda Philosopher Comes to the Defense, More Or Less, of the Post Office Department

Editor's note: The Neinda Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Route One comes out this week in favor of the post office department, we think.

Dear editor:

I was working on an idea for having Rural Free Delivery of my mail seven days a week instead of six out here on this Johnson grass farm and on all the other farms and ranches of the nation, when I read in a newspaper which temporarily fell out of my neighbor's mail box while he was plowing and which I have returned in just as good shape as when I found it and just before he got to the turn-row on this side — you don't hurt a newspaper by reading it — that there is some agitation for reducing city delivery of mail to four days a week as an economy measure and I figured I'd better hold up on my 7-day country plan for a more favorable time.

At any rate, the article went on to say that a committee of private business executives had made a study of the whole post office operation and had concluded that it's not run on modern business principles, and the reason it was losing money is answer is to turn it over to a corporation under the supervision of the government.

"Like it's run now," the chairman of the committee said, "if the post office business was up for sale, nobody would buy it."

Now wait a minute. If the judicial system of this country was up for sale, would you want to buy it on an investment? The highway department? Congress? In fact, if the entire Federal government was up for sale, who'd want to buy it? You want to buy a business that's a hundred and thirty billion dollars in debt and getting in deeper all the time?

Or getting closer to home, would you want to buy the state government? Or the . . . well, that's getting about as close to home as I ought to. We've all got to live around here.

The trouble is that some people just don't understand government. Take the post office department for example. It's like farming. It's a public service operation. It's not supposed to make a profit.

Your faithfully,
J. A.

The newspapers reported the story of two brothers in Egypt. It was a pathetic story. It was really the kind of story that hurts.

Saladdin Hassaneyn was 18 years old. Rumors began to go around that Saladdin was a thief and a homosexual. His brother, Mohamed Abdel Hassaneyn, came to Saladdin and told him he must die because of the rumors. Saladdin agreed, according to the news story. Mohamed gave Saladdin his choice for the spot of death and Saladdin replied, "Let it be in a field." They chose a spot in the Mediterranean city of Alexandria. There Mohamed strangled Saladdin with a headscarf.

Immediately after the act was committed, Mohamed went to their mother and boasted of the crime to her. Then Mohamed went to a police station and confessed. The report went on to say that Egyptian courts do not usually hang for "murders of honor." Mohamed can expect a 25-year sentence with a generous remission.

If one goes back into history several hundred years he will find that the first murder ever committed had a lot of similarities to the one committed recently in Egypt. There were two brothers who went into the field. One became jealous of his brother and murdered him. One difference between the two murderers was that the first would not admit his guilt while the second boasted of his.

When one reads a story like that in today's world we wonder how far man has progressed from the first man. We speak of our "advancements," and maybe we have advanced in the area of scientific research and methods. But you wonder sometimes if man's advancements in the area of human relations have kept pace with the advancements in the area of science. And the more you think about it the more you are convinced that they have not.

But they could have, and that's the tragedy. Ever since Cain killed Abel, even before that, our Creator has been trying to get us to get along with each other. The problem is that we can't get along with Him and that prevents us from getting along with each other. Because of this, He chose a cross. This is the highest and greatest attempt He ever made in His efforts of reconciliation of man and Master.

There are parts of the world, here and abroad, where the Galilean has never been admitted. They are not all geographical, either. His message has never been carried by anyone to those parts or has not been received. There are those, too, who oppose any efforts to spread the Good News. They say the message doesn't make any difference. If Saladdin Hassaneyn and Mohamed Abdel Hassaneyn had known the Galilean, Saladdin would still be alive.

And that would be a difference.

There may be times when your church seems to be growing slowly, when you become discouraged because your work seems to bear no fruit. Don't be discouraged. The Lord would say to you in Deut. 1:21, "Fear not, neither be discouraged," for I am with you.

During the very time you are discouraged, the Lord may have good news for you. This period of time may be more spring than winter. It is an open secret that God's arm is not shortened that he cannot save; neither is his ear heavy that He cannot hear.

Therefore, let us keep on working and praying that we may in our hearts possess the land of rest and comfort and peace with God. "The glory of the Lord shall be thy reward." He tells us in Isaiah 58:9, "Then thou shalt call, and the Lord shall answer; thou shalt cry, and He shall say, Here I Am."

We pray that the church and its fellowship will be your dearest treasure. May the church be the place where your "heart interest" lies. We invite you to attend services this week.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

AUSTIN, — Like the general cost of living, the price of outdoor recreation is going up for Texans. But the outdoorsmen will be getting more for their money.

However, the decision by the Texas Parks & Wildlife Commission to set entrance fees on 42 state parks did not mean an end to use fees.

In addition to a $1-per-car daily charge for entrance to 30 of the most-developed parks in the state system and 50-cents-per-car for some others, Texans and out-of-state visitors still will pay use fees for campsites, shelters, recreation halls, cabins, lodges, swimming pools and for fishing piers at Copano Bay and Port Lavaca.

But the dual fee system was designed to serve a dual purpose. The entrance fees which are expected to draw $9 million over the 10 years beginning September 1, will be used to pay off principal and interest of the first parks improvement and acquisition program that is contemplated will more than double the 60,000 acres of park land and bring recreation facilities within easy reach of every major metropolitan area.

Last November, voters approved an amendment to the state constitution which authorizes the Commission to issue up to $75 million in parks revenue bonds so that parks expansion can catch up with the state's population growth. Sometime after September 1 the Commission will issue $5.75 million worth of bonds, and it will take about $7.5 million to pay them off.

But the bond program can only apply to new parks land. Initial developments with bonds funds will be in a 120-mile-radius of most of the state's 10 largest metropolitan centers.

Although PWC declined to state where the first funds will be spent, sources speculated that the initial development may be at Velasco, Matagorda Island, Grapevine Reservoir, a five-mile "wild river" stretch along the Guadalupe River, White River Reservoir and in Jefferson County.

Under the entrance-fee plan, a family paying a $1-per-car entrance fee can go to as many $1 and 50-cent parks in that day as they can and care to attend. But they could buy what Parks and Wildlife Executive Director Robert Singleton considers a big bargain — a $12-a-year-pass to all parks. Annual permits will be acceptable in all facilities charging fees except San Jose Mission in San Antonio, Varner-Hogg Plantation and Eisenhower State Park where present fee schedules will continue. Swimming pool fees also will remain unchanged.

State Highway Commission looked to better recreational facilities, too, and approved new park roads for Atlanta State Park and Caddo Lake State Park, as well as $100,000 worth of "arbor projects" in 12 roadside parks along Texas highways.

APPOINTMENTS — Governor Connally appointed Memphis attorney Jack B. Boone district attorney of the 100 th judicial district which includes Carson, Collingsworth, Childress, Donley and Hall Counties.

Connally also named Dr. Herbert C. McKee of Houston and Dr. Wendell H. Hamrick of Dickinson to the Texas Air Control Board and Ray A. Foley to the Dallas County Flood Control District board.

New assistant district supervisor positions were announced by the Liquor Control Board for John R. Bacak of Kerrville, who will be stationed in Victoria; Donnie R. Hunter of Odessa, who will transfer to Corpus Christi; and Joe McCarthy who will remain in El Paso.

Department of Public Safety selected Elmer J. Terrell Jr. of Fort Worth as acting agent-in-charge of its narcotics section. Six agents in the section are retiring, including the present Agent-in-Charge, W. E. Naylor. DPS named as new Texas Rangers L. C. White of Beaumont and Henry B. Ligon of Kerrville.

Tilmon Barnett of Lockhart is DPS' first Negro officer. He is assigned to the capitol security guard.

House Speaker Ben Barnes named a blue-ribbon committee to study Texas employment wages and economic problems. Callan Graham of Austin is chairman. Lay members include Gustave Falk of Dallas, Harold Kilpatrick of Austin, Dean George Kozmetzky of the University of Texas, Austin, and Dean H. O. Kunkel of Texas A & M University. Legislator members are Reps. Raul Longoria of Edinburg, Honore Ligarde of Laredo, Raul Muniz of El Paso, Ralph Wayne of Plainview and the Rev. Zan Holmes of Dallas.

Barnes picked Reps. Menton Murray of Harlingen and Bill Clayton of Springlake to represent Texas on July 31-

August 1 at the Southern Water Resources Conference in Miami.

LITTLE CHANGE — A subcommittee of the 25-member committee which is working on revisions of the Texas constitution has recommended to the full committee that closed sessions of the Texas Senate be abolished.

Texas' constitution now allows the Senate to lock its doors when it considers approval or rejection of persons nominated to state offices by the governor.

Subcommittee headed by Rep. Dick Cory of Victoria voted down a proposal to allow 18-year-olds to vote. Also, one to permit the Legislature to set up a permanent voter registration system.

It did agree to retain the present system of legislative sessions every other year. Governor Connally and Speaker Barnes, who appointed most of the members of the committee, both favor annual legislative sessions.

These decisions will go to the full committee, then to the Legislature, which will decide which of the recommendations, if any, are to be submitted to the people for a vote.

POLLUTION JUDGEMENT — State of Texas has won a judgment for $17,500 against International Minerals and a Chemical Corporation of New York after taking the company to court for polluting the air over Houston. Corporation operates a barite plant.

This is the second pollution suit won by the state.

WELFARE REDUCTION — Some needy families with dependent children will be getting a reduction in state welfare aid effective September 1.

Reason is that a U. S. Supreme Court ruling (that needy children are entitled to assistance even though there is an able-bodied man in the house) will increase the AFDC rolls by an estimated 15 per cent.

Welfare Commissioner Burton G. Hackney warns that unless the present $60 million welfare ceiling is raised to $75 million, as proposed in a constitutional amendment to be voted on in November, there will be even further reduction.

Families receiving a maximum grant of $135 for four or more dependent children will get the biggest cut — $12 a month to $123. Those now receiving $124 will get a $1 cut to $123, those getting $125, a $2 cut, etc. In other words, $123 a month will be the new maximum. Reductions will be made only for those receiving more than that amount now.

DRAFT QUOTA CUT — Texas' draft call for September is 683 men, smallest since June, 1967.

Col. Morris S. Schwartz, state selective service director, said budgetary limitations will prevent pre-induction physical-mental exams during August.

July call was 695 men. Calls in 1967 ranged from a low of 674 to a high of 1,421. Monthly quotas this year have ranged as high as 2,378 (last April).

TRAIL OF FORTS — Governor and Mrs. Connally led a group of West Texans by bus on a 680-mile "Trail of Forts" through Central West Texas.

Purpose was to publicize the Forts Trail which takes travelers to many of the historic points in the area where the Indians made their last stand against the U. S. Cavalry.

Two of the Forts, Richardson and McKavett, were acquired by the state and are to be restored and preserved as historic sites.

Starting in Brownwood, the two-day tour included visits to Comanche, DeLeon, Mineral Wells, Jacksboro, Albany, Abilene, Bronte, San Angelo, Eldorado, Menard, Mason and Brady. It is one of 10 travel trails designated by the governor.

STAMP SALES UP — State Treasurer Jesse James reports increases in all stamp sales (liquor, wine and cigarettes) for July of 1968 over July of 1967.

Cigarette Stamp sales are up $1.1 million, liquor up $760,000 and wine up $26,533.

GRANTS APPROVED — A federal grant of $16,875 has been approved for the city of Portland (San Patricio County) to develop a 13-acre park and outdoor recreation facilities. City will match the grant with local funds for the $33,750 project.

Governor Connally authorized a $5,273 regional planning grant to Brazos Valley Development Council (Brazos, Grimes, Leon, Madison and Robertson Counties and 12 cities.)

Another $4,000 grant for planning went to the Orange County Council.

A smaller grant of $1,277 was cleared for Austin-Travis County Organization for Regional Planning which includes Austin, West Lake Hills, Manor, Rollingwood, Pflugerville, Austin Independent School District, Del Valley ISD 910 and Water District No. 11.

SECURITIES PERMITS — Twenty-eight applications for permits to sell $18,472,706 in securities in Texas were filed last week with the State Securities Board.

This included applications from three Texas companies — Bethesda Bath House Corporation of Marlin for $91,900, Crown Western Investments Inc. of Dallas for $743,047, and Non - Commissioned Officers

Life Insurance Company of Austin for $215,000.

SHORT SNORTS

Rep. John Traeger of Seaguin was re-elected urban affairs committee chairman of the southern conference of Council of State Governments.

Latest report from the Texas Liquor Control Board plaintiffs were filed by LCB agents in June with 2,500 convictions for violations of the liquor law and $90,022 in fines and costs.

Delegations from the Fort Worth-Dallas metropolitan area appeared before the Texas Highway Commission to ask for planning of future big city highways which between them would cost more than $500,000,000.

Honor Student

Dean Wayne H. Holtzman of the University of Texas College of Education reports the list of honor students for the spring semester work. Carolyn Reynolds was listed Cum Laude.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Reynolds.

HAMLIN HERALD

Mr. Farmer! Mr. Businessman!

WE NEED YOUR HELP.

Cotton is by far the major income crop in the Rolling Plains, accounting for about 40% of total agricultural income. Annual sales average well over $50 million. Processing, transportation, storage, and insurance provide additional millions. Farmers are the biggest users of gasoline, tires, machinery, fertilizers, insecticides, and credit. The majority of all citizens in this area directly or indirectly, depend on cotton for most of their income.

Rolling Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., is a local non-profit organization, chartered by the State of Texas, to promote the welfare and protect the interests of the cotton industry in the 32 county Rolling Plains area. Activities are carried out under the direction of a 64 man Board of Directors, 2 from each county, who serve without pay. The organization has been tremendously successful, and has earned State and National recognition.

RPCG depends on voluntary contributions for operating funds. Due to the short crop in 1967, income was reduced 25%. Costs are up. We must have additional funds to continue to represent this area.

Help your neighbors! Carry your share of the load! Mail your contribution today to Rolling Plains Cotton Growers, Box 1108, Stamford, Tex. 79553.
